Ralph Reader

Welcome. And doubly welcome if you were one of those who came last year and spread such good reports of us afterwards. We hope we can support your gratuitous advertising with our performance this year.

As before, the whole show except for one item was written by Ralph Reader; as before, any scout in the town could join the cast; and, as before, its a bit crowded back stage. The one difference is the addition of girls. A dozen Rangers have joined the Gang and we hope you will enjoy the addition. They have made quite a difference back stage already — but the production team still hope to keep control until after the last performance.

A Gang Show is a unique sort of show. The boys join for the barney and excitement and on condition that they do not have to learn too many lines. There are no pretensions to acting skills or singing qualities, and there are no stars — just a lot of youngsters in lots of small parts. Ralph tailored his material to this very idea and its great fun to put over. We hope you enjoy it from where you are sitting and that you will laugh and clap and cheer — some of us are a bit wobbly round the knees up there in the spotlight and we need some help.

By the way, the numerous dress suits in the show are not 'by' anyone, they are the product of sorting through a year of Scout jumble sales before the doors opened.

Thank you for coming,

The Hastings Gang.
